

PRIVACY POLICY

Our Commitment

Venture One Legal Ltd. and Venture One Corporate Services Ltd. (together, “Venture One”) are committed to protecting the privacy of our clients, business partners and visitors to our website. This privacy policy outlines how Venture One uses and protects any information you provide through the use of this website. We may collect information from you through your use of our website, upon receiving a request for information or when engaged to provide legal or professional services.

Venture One is dedicated to ensuring that your privacy is protected and your information is secure. Any information collected will be used in accordance with this privacy statement. We cannot guarantee the security of any information transmitted to us online, however, we do our best to safeguard your information.

Venture One may change this policy from time to time without giving notice by updating this page, therefore, we recommend that you revisit this page periodically.

What We Collect

We may collect visitor information from the following areas of our website:

- Communications with our team – if you send an email to any member of our team we will use your details to respond to your request/comments.
- Contact us – if you send us an email via info@ventureonelegal.com we will use your details to respond to you. Use of Collected Information

We require collected information to better understand your needs and in particular for the following purposes:

- To monitor and enhance the features of this website;
- To facilitate and improve service our delivery;
- To compile anonymous statistical information;
- To establish and manage our client and business relationships;
- To meet our legal obligations; and
- To facilitate any other legitimate business purposes.

Publications and Seminar Programs

Our publications program uses the contact information of those who subscribe through our internet site or by invitation from firm members. Our seminar and marketing programs draw on a contact database of primarily business contacts that may also include individuals. We provide an opportunity to any contact to unsubscribe from our publications program or opt-out of contact for seminar, client events or marketing purposes on an ongoing basis by accessing our web page, or e-mailing your request to unsubscribe to info@venture1legal.com .

Use of Cookies

Cookies are small elements of data placed on your devices when you visit a web site in order to track use of the site and to improve your user experience. We may, from time to time, collect personal information about you and your use of the site through the use of cookies including Google Analytics cookies. Some browsers can be set to reject all cookies; if you choose to modify your browser in this manner, not all features offered through our internet site may remain available. By continuing to use this site without changing your settings you consent to our use of cookies as outlined.

Controlling Your Personal Information

We will not disclose, sell, distribute or lease your personal information to any third party unless we are required to do so by law. We reserve the right to change our Privacy Policy at any time by posting a new Privacy Policy on our internet site. This Privacy Policy and the use of this website shall be constructed in accordance with the laws of the Cayman Islands.

If you would like to receive a copy of the information we have collected about you please send an email to info@venture1legal.com . You may also request that we amend or delete the information collected by sending an email to info@venture1legal.com .